

LAW QUESTIONS FOR FIREMEN.

EXAMINATION OF 1,191 CANDIDATES ANNULLED.

Too Much Constitution and Not Enough Common Sense Found in the Chief Examiner's Bench of Questions, According to the Chief Civil Service Board.

The Civil Service Commission cancelled yesterday the examination of more than 1,100 candidates for appointment to the Fire Department which was held last Tuesday at the Grand Central Palace. The examination was declared void by the commission because of the character of the questions asked.

Hitherto the Commissioners have never interfered with the examiners in the framing of the examination papers. They never asked to see the papers, so that there could be no possibility of suggestions being made that they might have typed or seen of their friends. President Coler said yesterday that the present commission intends to change this system and to insist that the examiners shall put the examinations on a "common sense basis."

The rule affecting the fire service reads that applicants shall write papers "covering knowledge of the ordinary functions of the State and city governments."

Under this head the candidates at last week's examination were called upon to answer these questions:

1. What body has the power to determine whether a law is constitutional or not? Give an example of what you would consider an unconstitutional law.
2. What is meant by the veto power of the Governor? State what you know of how the Governor's veto may be overcome.
3. Is there any check on the Mayor's power of appointing heads of departments? How about the Governor's power in this matter?
4. Explain briefly the different duties of the executive, legislative and judicial powers of New York City.
5. Who must finally pass upon a proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State before it becomes a part of the Constitution?

President Coler, in making known the action taken by the commission, said: "It seems to us that the paper drawn up by the chief examiner on 'Government' was entirely beyond the comprehension of the ordinary candidate who might possess the necessary qualifications to make an excellent member of the Fire Department."

"The arithmetic questions also were more or less complicated. The commission agrees with others interested in the matter, that the examination should be held more closely to the actual duties that the candidates are expected to perform. In this particular examination the chief examiner was instructed to prepare the question sheets, excepting that on localities, himself, and not to have them printed until the morning of the examination, in order that there could be no possibility of any of the papers being surreptitiously obtained. He was carefully instructed to keep the questions within the reach of the intelligence of the candidates, who might be capable of performing fire duty. In round numbers 3,700 applications were received, eleven hundred and twenty-one candidates took the examination, and the balance of the applicants either failing to appear or else having failed to pass the medical and physical tests."

"The chief examiner, who is a member of the commission to see, or to any extent to interfere with the preparation of question papers, had no voice in the matter, and we intend to exert our best endeavors to place all examinations on a common sense basis. In this we believe we shall have the cooperation and active help of all those interested in the development of the civil service."

UNDENOMINATIONAL THEOLOGY
Plan of Union Seminary's President Worries Presbyterian Clergymen.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Cuthbert Hall, president of Union Theological Seminary, aroused a spirited discussion among members of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association yesterday by reading a paper on "The Theological Education for the Times." It had been read in part before a recent theological gathering at St. Louis. The paper advocated the establishment of a theological school absolutely without denominational bias. The demand of the times, Dr. Hall thought, is for a theological school in the broadest sense. He would not have the school one of a denomination, with all that the term "denominational school" implies. The school of his ideal, he said, "would go ahead and use the latest discoveries in science and the latest advances in thought, entirely unbound by any denominational prejudices. It is a school that would teach church history or any other department better than a Unitarian, why, yes, of course, than a Presbyterian, Dr. Hall declared he believed his plan to be Christian and impossible of full realization.

First to get the floor was the Rev. Dr. Wilson Phinney, who is one of the oldest living graduates of Union Seminary. "I hope Union Seminary will never go the length Dr. Hall has suggested," said he. "I couldn't read that. That is just the way Harvard University has gone. Look at it. It started as an orthodox institution, teaching the purest Unitarian (Congregational) doctrine. Now look at it. It is hardly anything other than a Unitarian institution. If Union ever goes as far as Dr. Hall has described I shall have to quit it."

The Rev. Dr. Albert Erdman of Morrisville, N. J., asked, "Where in the world could a man who was educated at such a seminary as the Dr. Hall favored get a job?"

GREETING TO ROOSEVELT.
Sent to the President by the Pope Through Archbishop Agius.

Yesterday in the Roman Catholic Church was the Feast of the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin, on which the priests of the archdiocese renew their priestly vows. This custom is maintained wherever the diocesan seminary is under the control of the Sulpician order, the priests, in imitation of the virgin consecrating herself to God, vowing to abstain from marriage, and after solemn high mass, ascending the altar steps and, placing their hands in those of the Archbishop, renewing their vows.

Mr. McCready of Holy Cross Church in West Forty-second street was celebrant of yesterday's mass. Archbishop Enley took his seat at the altar and heard the mass. North of the altar stood the Rev. Bishop Burgess who presided. Last night special services were held in honor of the centennial of the birth of the late President. The church is one of the oldest in Long Island. The Rev. Edward M. Guffy is the present pastor.

A 200-Year-Old Church Celebrates.
The congregation of St. James's Protestant Episcopal Church in Newtown, Queens borough, are celebrating the 200th anniversary of the founding of the church. The celebration, which started Sunday night, will end this evening with a sermon, giving a historical review of the church. Bishop Burgess will preside. Last night special services were held in honor of the centennial of the birth of the late President. The church is one of the oldest in Long Island. The Rev. Edward M. Guffy is the present pastor.

"The Pillar of Light."

By the Author of "The Wings of the Morning."

The cold granite walls of a storm-beaten lighthouse are queer surroundings for a love story—two love stories, in fact.

Most of you have never been in a lighthouse, and it seems hard to realize how eighty shipwrecked persons could live a week in such a place.

"The Pillar of Light" is a story of tremendous contrasts—it tangles with life.

Just start it.

PAPAL INVESTIGATORS DEPART.

Benedictine Abbots Who Have Been Looking Up the Resurrectionists.

The Abbot Maurus Serafini, Apostolic Visitor from the Pope to the North American continent, left for Rome on the Kaiser Wilhelm this morning, accompanied by his secretary, the Abbot Boniface Natter. The Abbot Serafini, who does not speak English, was sent here by the Pope to learn about the condition of the religious order known as the Resurrectionists. He brought with him the Abbot Natter, who speaks English fluently. Both are Benedictines.

"An Apostolic Visitor to a foreign country," said the Abbot Natter to a SUN reporter, "is appointed by the Pope to visit some particular religious order and report to him on the condition of that order. A member of a different order is always sent because a person free from bias must make the report. Hence, a Benedictine is sent to investigate the Resurrectionist order. Every question asked by the Apostolic Visitor must be answered under oath, and the things disclosed to the investigator are revealed to any one but the Pope."

The only visit the abbot made outside of their mission was to the Sacred Heart Monastery at Oklahoma, which is of their own order.

The Abbot Natter is the first abbot since the Reformation in England to rule an abbey there. He is the first abbot to come to the United States. This is Buckfast Abbey in Devonshire. Asked how the Benedictines got it back, the abbot said: "We were an advertisement in a daily newspaper in London and purchased it from the owner."

BROOKLYN'S JEWISH HOSPITAL.
"Unknown Friend" Who Contributed $25,000 to It Was Abraham Abraham.

At the annual meeting of the Jewish Hospital Society of Brooklyn these officers were elected for the ensuing year. President, Abraham Abraham; first vice-president, Louis L. Finkels; second vice-president, Aaron Levy; treasurer, Henry Roth; secretary, Nathan S. Jones; directors, Edward C. Blum, Julius Davidson, Albert L. Levi, Nathan Levy, Philip H. Lustig, Louis Newman, David Nusbaum, Abraham Stern, Julius Strauss, David T. Ullrich, Max Weis, and Joseph Michaels.

In his annual report, Abraham Abraham writes: "In three seasons this great hospital movement was in its infancy, and the most sanguine and optimistic promoters did not dream in their wildest fancies that within this short period of time we would be in possession of a hospital building, with ground free and clear of debt and valued by the city authorities at $175,000, and in addition, a cash fund of $25,000. The fact is, that a year ago, when the trustees were struggling to secure money with which to purchase the present hospital it was reported that an 'unknown friend' had contributed $25,000 toward the fund. It is announced now by some of the members that the unknown friend is Abraham Abraham."

MIGHT WISH EAST SIDE TO BURN.

If It Would Not Grow Up as Bad or Worse—Vellier on City Crowding.

Lawrence Vellier, secretary of the City Club and former deputy Tenement House Commissioner, gave yesterday before the School of Philanthropy, 105 East Twenty-second street, the first of a series of lectures on social work in large cities. Mr. Vellier spoke of the attempts of the English Government as long ago as 1850 to prevent the growth of London. In 1855 a wealthy Sussex landowner was ordered to live at his country place and not maintain a town establishment. He was fined £1,000 for disobeying.

"To our democratic vision," said Mr. Vellier, "these royal edicts seem strange and foreign, yet one is inclined at times to wish for the rule of a benevolent despot who would adopt similar measures. I suppose there is hardly one of those who have worked for ten years or more in the congested quarters of this city of New York who has not at one time or another desired that the city might be purified by fire, and that the whole East Side might be laid low. But the thought has always been checked by the fear of what might rise phoenixlike from the ashes."

Mr. Vellier declared that there are now fifteen or twenty centres of decay similar to the old Mulberry Bend that need to be destroyed. One of the results of the increase of overcrowding during the past few years he described as follows:

"When I first began social work, twelve years ago, I was never conscious, not even on the hottest, most sultry summer days, of any lack of fresh air in the streets. To-day, even in winter, one can go through many streets in the tenement districts and see the air heavy and lifeless. The atmosphere is so thick with the exhalations of the city that one can hardly breathe. The air is so thick with the exhalations of the city that one can hardly breathe."

SHUT OUT FROM DEAD WIFE.
Father and Daughter Ask Each Other's Arrest; Court Sides With Girl.

Timothy Sheehan, 53 years old, of Mills Hotel No. 1, was arrested in Jefferson Market police court yesterday on complaint of his nineteen-year-old daughter, Annie, who accused him of breaking into the house where the body of his dead wife lay, at 434 West Twenty-seventh street.

"My father and mother separated last June," said the girl to Magistrate Whitman, "and he promised to give her $5 a week. We have never seen him or the money since. The children have had to be sent to an institution. When we wouldn't let him in to see mother, he broke in and stole a disturbance, with her dead body in the room."

Sheehan is an engineer. He said that he had paid for his wife's grave, and when he heard on Sunday of her death, he went to have a last look at her face. He was refused admission. Yesterday morning he went to court and asked Magistrate Whitman for a permit to enter his own house. Failing to get that, he returned in the afternoon with his daughter and each asked that the other be arrested.

On the girl's statement, Magistrate Whitman held Sheehan in $500 bail for examination to-day. His wife's funeral will be held at about the time of his examination in court.

LARRY STILL IN THE TOMBS.
Says He Can Get Any Amount of Bail and Pines for Broadway.

Justice Vernon M. Davis of the Supreme Court, Criminal Branch, will today pass on District Attorney Jerome's request that Larry Summerfield be held in $100,000 bail. Larry stayed in the Tombs and lodged because, he says, he can get any amount of bail and wants to see Broadway again.

Admittance was submitted yesterday by Mr. Jerome and Jimmy Oliver on the bail question. Mr. Jerome presented an affidavit from Detective Sergeant James H. Allen showing that Summerfield has been arrested twenty times in different cities and that he was arrested not later than October last.

Larry's counsel said that he had been convicted only once.

ROBBED CIRCUS PAYS OFF.

$25,000 in Cash Carried in a Grip From Here to Tarboro, N. C.

"We started Mr. Fraim of our New York office for Tarboro, N. C., last Saturday," R. F. Hamilton, the circus agent, said last evening. "He carried $25,000 with him in a grip. It was all in bills of small denomination, and so, of course, it made quite a wad. The money was to fill part of the hole left when the ticket wagon of the Forepaugh & Wells Bros. circus was robbed at Tarboro of about $1,000 last Friday night. We tried to arrange to send the money by telegraph, but there was not $25,000 available cash in all the Tarboro banks. The money had to be there to pay off with, as the circus disbanded at Tarboro and goes to its regular quarters at Columbus, Ohio. There was nothing to do but send the cash. Mr. Fraim got to Tarboro this morning and turned over the money to the paymaster."
